Dear (Name, age // ex: Jovian, age 6)

Wow! The year 2020 has arrived and you wouldn't believe what has happened. Nope, still no flying cars, but there have been a lot of surprises. Since the first quarter, many of us have been quarantined and are living a socially distanced lifestyle due to a global pandemic. And all over the world, we are finally confronting systems of oppression that have created and maintained widespread inequity. Specifically, racial inequity.

In the face of all of this, I find myself feeling _____ and looking forward to _____.

I often look to _____ for purposeful guidance and encouragement.

This is a pivotal time and many are calling for equity and justice. You'll be _____ to know that I have been using my resources (ex: time, energy, money, skill, etc.) to _____.

As I think of you, I can remember that we have always been the kind of person who believed in _____.

Remember our dream of _____? Well, I am doing _____ to honor it.

I want you to be proud of the person we've become. I am renewing my promise to you by committing to _____.

I will share this commitment with _____ who will hold me lovingly accountable.

Thank you for always being a helpful guide.

Love,

<Your name, age >
